Review

The first "Transnational Project Meeting" took place in December 2017 in Innsbruck and was an elementary point, both for the common understanding of the topic, as well as for the further procedure. Immediately after the meeting, the central points of the meeting were summarized so that each of the project partners could be on the same level.

Current project status

The GoodVET project is currently in the process of preparing each of the necessary indicators for a good vocational training for refugees. After the turn of the year, the first indicators were developed and described under a continuously exchange between the partners. Parallel to the identification of further indicators, the already elaborated indicators are subject to constant optimization and thus adjusted continuously.

Over the next few months, the already started work and research will be continued and new quality indicators will be generated. Close cooperation between the project partners is still essential. In June the second transnational project meeting will take place, this time in Roskilde (Denmark).
